

Gladney Center Bright Futures Camp

In the entire world, there is but one priceless commodity that ensures our future children. But around the world too many of these children are living in orphanages. The sad fact is that the older the child gets, the less likely they are to be adopted. To increase the opportunity of adoption for older children, the Gladney Center for Adoption created Bright Futures Camps.

This fun-filled adventure allows older children to visit the United States and experience life in a loving home with a prospective adoptive family. This summer, Gladney is hosting Bright Futures Camps in several cities in the United States. The children, ranging in age from 7 to 16, have been medically cleared for travel by a US Embassy approved doctor.

Both Ethiopian and Russian children will be participating in separate camps this year. Gladney is looking for families who are willing to open their hearts and homes to children from either Ethiopian or Russian orphanages. For many of these children this once-in-a-lifetime experience could be their only opportunity to find a forever family. Could you be that family?
